

BRITAIN AND FRANCE AT WAR WITH GERMANY!

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced today that Britain and France are at war with Germany. The British public have mixed feelings about the news.

Arnold Jones, 58, a shopkeeper, said: 'I think we should go to war, but I'm worried too. War will be bad for business. However, we must get rid of Hitler. If we don't, we could be next.'

Joan Mann, 29, disagreed. She said: 'My father was killed in World War One. It was terrible. I'm against war. We should try and sort things out peacefully.'

Jim Brown, 19, said: 'Hitler is a dictator. I read that he wants to kill Jews. We must stop him! I'm going to join up – but army life will be a big change for me.'
