

Sima and Kojo both dived underwater and surfaced a few seconds later. "I can't see him," yelled Sima.

"Me neither," said Kojo. Just then Tom's head bobbed up a short distance away. He was laughing.

Tom beckoned them over. "Come and look at this. There's an amazing underwater world down there."

They each took a deep breath and plunged underwater. A glittering coral reef teemed with life. Colourful fish darted in and out of the waving coral. A huge ray passed beneath them, its body rippling like a flag in a breeze.